PAIR YOUR WINE
CHOICE WITH YOUR MEAL

When pairing a good wine with good food – there are a few things to think about. Firstly, start off with the ingredients and recognizing the "star" of the dish, followed by the sauce or glaze.

When choosing your wine, you want to match the intensity of the food with the intensity of the wine. For instance, a light and delicate rose wouldn't match too well with a rich rib eye steak.

Salt in a dish will reduce your palates' perception of the acidity. Suggested is either a more acidic wine such as a French Sauvignon Blanc, or a sweeter wine to balance the saltiness.

If you are looking to enjoy a sweeter dish, a sweet wine is without question. Your wine should always be sweeter than the dish, in order for the two to compliment each other.

Spicier foods are best to pair with a sweeter wine too, or a wine with a lower alcohol content. Having done some spice pairings with zinfandel wines – it is found that these bring out the darker, peppery flavors in the wine.
